The logo can also be used in parts, the text below the logo can also be usedseperatly. Always maintain the free area rule shown on page 3 around any object.

Maintain the company profile by always using the seperate parts together if used apart if possible, an example might be the text on one side of a product and the icon on the other side. This is essential.

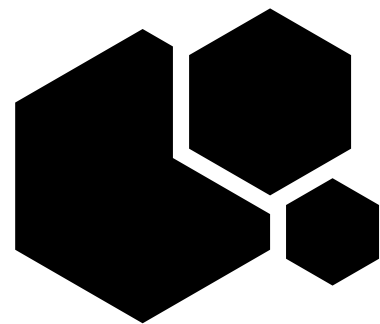

The thought behind the logo and brand name is that OCD stands for an extraordinary order of things and the icon itself shows the basic OCD system with the possibility to connect addons to the product.
